NATURE OF COLLECTED DATA, SCOPE OF DATA HANDLING AND CONFERMENT BY THE USER

The term “data handling” refers to any operation or series of operations, performed with or without the use of automated processes and applied to personal data or bulk of personal data as the retrieval, the registration, the organization, the structuration, the conservation, the adaptation or the editing, extraction, consultation, the use, the transmission, diffusion or any other form of sharing, the comparison or connection, the limitation, the destruction or the erase (Art. 4 EU 679/2016). Inserting the data to access the present website implies their acquisition for the following purposes. The user is clearly free to choose if to provide or not its own data by filling in the dedicated forms.

Navigation Data - IT systems and the software procedures used to run this website acquire, during their routine activity, some personal data which transmission is implicit within the use of Internet communication protocols. This information is not collected in order to associate them with specific users profiles, but for their intrinsic nature they could, through the elaboration or the connection with third party data, allow the identification of users, and have the role, for the company, to provide anonymous statistical information on the website use.

Data voluntarily provided by the user - The facultative, explicit and voluntarily dispatch of e-mails at the e-mail addresses reported on the present website implies the acquisition of the e-mail address of the sender, necessary to reply to the request, as well as eventual other personal data reported in the e-mail. The voluntarily filling-in of the forms in the website implies the acquisition of the data of the user, archived by the company within the competent department. Specific synthetic information will be progressively reported or displayed in the website pages dedicated to on-demand services.

Website user personal data could be used to get anonymous statistical information on the website use, in order to assess the regular functioning of the same and to check for eventual responsibilities in case of crimes towards the website, TEST VERITAS or third parties. In particular, the data collected through filled in forms within the website will be used by the company for various purposes:

✓ Website registration

Data will be treated in order to allow the registration to the website of the interested user and to give him access to contents related to company products. Data might be used for statistical analysis within the company and to provide business and marketing information even via e-mail. Providing the personal data marked with an asterisk is mandatory in order to get the website credentials; the consent to personal data handling for sales/marketing purposes is to be considered facultative. In any moment the user will be able to retire the consent to use its data for such purposes or to ask for the cancellation of the same data, by sending an email at info@testveritas.com.

✓ CV

Spontaneously sent data or those sent in response to a job vacancy will be handled in order to allow the activities of research, selection and evaluation of human resources. The collected data will be stored for 12 months in the company digital archives; after this period the data will be destroyed. In any moment the candidate will be able to retire the consent to use its data for such purposes or to ask for the cancellation of the same data, by sending an email at privacy@testveritas.com.

IT systems and the software procedures used to run this website acquire, during their routine activity, some personal data which transmission is implicit within the use of Internet communication protocols. As a consequence, the simple access to the website implicates the acquisition, by TEST VERITAS, of data and information regarding the user. Data provisioning within the registration and job application are facultative because they are collected by the company in order to optimize its activity. Refusal to provide such data makes it impossible to provide any organizing, technical or commercial information as well as to obtain the required information.
